"The Great Migration" Nick Silvia, Contributing Writer

The Great Migration is upon us (or just ending by the time you read this), and no, I don't mean the flocking of every first year to the townhouse of those five juniors who have no friends in their grade. I'm talking about the first Fall Break – when Friday classes are more likely to get canceled than someone who says Columbus Day instead of Fall Break.

This year, the administration is treating Fall Break like Christmas, rewarding the good Stags with extra time off and resigning the bad Bucks to the worst fate imaginable: spending one day at Sacred Heart without going legally insane.

"They tried to force me to become a film major," said one debaucherous Deer. "I think they wanted me to work at the Sacred Heart Theatre."

While most students will travel home for the extended weekend, for others that just isn't possible, and they need to stay in their dorms. But lucky for them, I've compiled a convenient list of fun activities to do around Fairfield this weekend:

- Go to the beach
- That's it.

Have fun everyone!
